

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a letter or document, located in the upper right corner of the page. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading. It appears to be a formal or official communication, possibly related to a business or legal matter. The text is written in a dark ink on aged paper.

