Newhous, 19, S, 77 My dearest Admother!
Even now at 5 a. m. we arrived and got your kind lines, for which, ~~thousand~~ ^{thousands} thanks. Your reproaches are unjust. I wrote you from Vienna, Trieste and Venice. Here I found Loring with lady and Tawman with son, besides a collegial em? played. Our travel has run quickly and cleverly - but you know my anxiousness, when separated from family, therefore I think not to stay here more than sufficient for repassing, perhaps two days - there is too much company. I feel embarrassed and not familiar with so many persons. Fredy is as clever as he can be, but I long for attachments.
Everyone longs here for rain. You may be sure that I shall be very happy when home. I embrace you both tenderly, thank Ada for her writing. Angel! G.
