

Musselsh 16/7/70

My dearest friend!

Only two lines in the
greatest hurry:
the war is declared, I doubt, whether I shall be able to continue my travel as far as I proposed.

for the moment I
must remain here

Some days and await the development of public matters.

Pray be so kind as to let me have your news immediately.

München post restante
for I must know how you are and how you
think on your lonely
pilgrimage.

- Your orders are my rule of life; They to oppose my prayers:
1. take care for your
health.
  2. remember me.
  3. write me word
tomorrow
  4. receive kindly my
athwart ambassador.
  5. on pleasure partied
be aware from banned
sigers.

I beg leave to recommend me to your benevolent recollection and pray to excuse the enclosure -
which you may drop in the post-box.

When the North should be closed I will return sooner to the South - where your sympathy is my star.

Believe me to remain
heavily yours
Lewis
