My Dear Augusta!

to I am too occupied or better told, too idle to learn any English verb or other things, I will write You this letter and all following ones in English not alone for my exercise as also to force You, in answering my epistles in the same manner.

I think it not very difficult to translate in English, a letter formerly drawn in German, ~~how~~ we did last winter, congratulating at Mrs. Tschka.

I will also try to write all my thought like an English native, only with more faults and I wish also that Your answer be not ~~too~~ too voricious in praises, which show, ~~our~~ collegial idleness learning that we learned this language at the second floor, having one foot already at the third story.

Saturday we returned of our little journey we undertook the day after your visit.
We had very fine weather till Friday afternoon, where we have been caught by the rain and wetted thoroughly.

We stop the Sonnwendstein, a mount 4600 feet high but not very difficult to ascend.

I must interrupt because my right arm aches me very much since some time. You will always observe it at writing.
I do not know what is the matter with it, but I can scarcely move it and am always trembling.

Your friend
Jane
